

Portable direct-methanol fuel cell for portable electronic appliances has a fuel cell unit made from a polymer membrane with an anode and cathode forming a membrane electrode unit, anode/cathode areas and a reservoir for methanol

Patent number: DE10136753

Publication date: 2003-02-20

Inventor: BALDAUF MANFRED (DE); DENNERLEIN KLAUS (DE); GEBHARDT ULRICH (DE); Waidhas Manfred (DE)

Applicant: SIEMENS AG (DE)

Classification:

- International: H01M8/22

- european: H01M8/04C4; H01M8/10C; H01M8/24C

Application number: DE20011036753 20010727

Priority number(s): DE20011036753 20010727

Also published as:

WO03012906 (A)

WO03012906 (A)

Report a data error he

Abstract of DE10136753

A fuel cell has a fuel cell unit with a membrane electrode unit and a reservoir for a methanol-water mixture. A methanol-permeable diaphragm (2) acts as an element for supplying methanol to an anode (12). The diaphragm can be separated mechanically from the reservoir by means of a slide (6). If necessary, the anode and/or a polymer membrane can serve as a diaphragm.

Data supplied from the esp@cenet database - Worldwide